

August 2026

Dear Homeowner,

I've followed West Alamo closely for a long time, and single-story homes on Sunnybrook with a saltwater pool, a fully updated kitchen with a commercial-grade range, and a private backyard setting don't come along often. When I saw this one come to market in June, I made a note of it immediately. When it came off the market without a sale after 22 days, that's what prompted me to put this packet together.

Twenty-two days is not a disaster, but in West Alamo at $1,998,000, it signals something worth examining. This home has the bones, the updates, and the setting that buyers in this price range are actively looking for. The listing description covered the checklist, but it didn't build a case for why this specific combination of features justifies the number, and it didn't tell the story of what living here actually looks and feels like. At $917 per square foot, a buyer comparing options needs more than a list of improvements. They need to understand what they're getting that they can't find anywhere else on the market right now.

I've put together a focused analysis of what the listing history suggests held this home back, along with a clear picture of where this property stands relative to the current Alamo market. The report includes specific friction points and a realistic plan for what a relaunch would need to look and feel like to get a different result.

If you're already working with a real estate agent toward a new listing, please feel free to set this aside with my compliments. If you're not, I'd welcome a conversation whenever the timing feels right for you.

With respect,

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

A Turnkey Single-Story in West Alamo with a Saltwater Pool - and a Listing That Didn't Make the Case

1489 Sunnybrook Rd. is the kind of home Alamo buyers at this price point are genuinely searching for. Single-story living, a 10,608-square-foot lot, a saltwater pool with private landscaping, a fully updated kitchen anchored by a commercial-grade gas range, and smart-home lighting throughout. The primary suite has a thermostatically controlled fireplace and a large walk-in closet. The interior and exterior have both been freshly painted, the flooring is new throughout, and the driveway and fencing have been recently redone. This is a home that has been maintained and upgraded with real care, and it shows in person.

The listing history tells a different story. At $917 per square foot, this home is priced in the middle of the Alamo standard range, which is entirely defensible for everything it offers. But the marketing didn't build that defense. The listing description ran through the upgrade list without connecting those features to a buyer's actual life. The pool, the single-story floor plan, the West Alamo school district, the proximity to both Danville and Walnut Creek - each of those deserves its own moment in the narrative, not a sentence in a long paragraph. The home left the market after 22 days without a sale, which means the right buyer was either never reached or never given a compelling enough reason to move.

A relaunch for this property needs to do two things: reach the specific buyer profile that values single-story living, a private pool, and top schools in West Alamo, and present this home with the visual depth and narrative clarity to justify $917 per square foot before that buyer ever schedules a showing.

MARKET FORENSICS: WHY IT DIDN'T SELL

Every expired listing has a story. Here's what the listing history tells us about what held this one back, and what a different strategy would have done.

Friction #1: The Listing Description Checked Boxes Without Telling a Story

The MLS remarks for 1489 Sunnybrook read like a well-organized punch list: new flooring, new pavers, new fencing, epoxy garage floor, Lutron dimmers. Every item is real and every item adds value. But at $1,998,000, buyers aren't scanning a checklist. They're trying to picture their life in a home. The description never placed the reader in that backyard next to the saltwater pool on a summer evening. It never explained why a single-story floor plan matters at this price point in Alamo, or what it means to be minutes from both Danville and Walnut Creek. The home has a genuine story to tell. The listing just never told it.

* THE BRIGHTWORK DIFFERENCE

BrightWork's Zillow Showcase placement pairs a fully rewritten narrative with premium portal positioning, so the first conversation your home has with a buyer is one that builds a case, not just a catalog.

Friction #2: The Visual Assets Were Never Given the Stage They Deserved

A saltwater pool with irrigated private landscaping on a 10,608-square-foot West Alamo lot is a premium feature that lives or dies on how it's shown. Standard MLS photography, shot from ground level with a wide angle, tends to flatten outdoor spaces, and buyers scrolling at speed on Zillow or Realtor.com can't feel the depth or the privacy that make a backyard like this genuinely special. The same is true of the home's single-story footprint, the updated kitchen, and the overall setting on Sunnybrook. At $917 per square foot, buyers are comparing this home against every other option in the Alamo market, and they're making early judgments online before they ever schedule a showing.

* THE BRIGHTWORK DIFFERENCE

BrightWork uses Sky Tour aerial videography to show the lot position, backyard setting, and neighborhood context in ways ground photography simply can't replicate, giving buyers a reason to make the drive before they've talked themselves out of it.

Friction #3: The Right Buyer Was Never Actively Sought

At $1,998,000 in West Alamo, the buyer pool is real but selective. This is a price point where buyers have options, they research carefully, and they don't respond to passive MLS distribution the way buyers at lower price points sometimes do. The profile for this specific home, a single-story with a pool, top schools, and turnkey condition, skews toward families with school-age children, professionals relocating from San Francisco or Oakland who want flat living without a condo, and buyers actively comparing Alamo against Danville and Orinda. Those buyers can be found and reached directly. A standard listing strategy waits for them to find the home. That's a meaningful difference when you're 22 days in without an offer.

* THE BRIGHTWORK DIFFERENCE

BrightWork runs geo-targeted digital campaigns that put this home in front of SF and East Bay buyers who are actively researching Lamorinda and the 680 corridor before they've found what they're looking for, reaching the decision-maker before they've settled on a different address.

POSITIONING ANALYSIS

Metric	1489 Sunnybrook Rd.	Alamo Market Context
Price per Sq. Ft.	$917/sqft	Standard tier: $850–$950/sqft
Lot / Setting	10,608 sqft, private backyard, saltwater pool, mature landscaping	Typical Alamo lot: 8,000–12,000 sqft, pool not standard at this size
Architectural Character	Single-story 1949 ranch, fully updated interior and exterior, turnkey condition	Mixed inventory, many two-story; single-story commands premium for right buyer
Premium Features	Commercial-grade gas range, Lutron smart lighting, thermostatically controlled fireplace, new flooring throughout, epoxy garage, resurfaced driveway	Standard floor plan with partial updates; full turnkey packages less common
HOA	None	Many Alamo neighborhoods carry $100–$300/mo HOA

The verdict: At $917/sqft versus a benchmark range of $850-$950/sqft, this home sits near the upper end of that range. At $917 per square foot, this home sits in the middle of the Alamo standard tier, which is the right place for a fully updated single-story with a pool and no HOA in a top-school district. The numbers are defensible, but only if the marketing builds the case for them. The saltwater pool, the lot size, the smart-home systems, and the single-story floor plan together represent a combination that commands attention in this market. The strategy going forward needs to show buyers exactly why this specific package justifies the price, not leave them to figure it out on their own.

THE RELAUNCH STRATEGY: 3 PILLARS

We don't re-list this home. We relaunch it with new media, a narrative that finally does it justice, and distribution designed for the buyer it deserves.

Pillar I - Telling the Full Story of 1489 Sunnybrook

This home's strongest selling points, the pool, the single-story plan, the West Alamo school district, and the fully turnkey condition, are reasons buyers move to this part of Alamo specifically. A relaunch starts with a listing narrative built around those reasons, not a summary of recent improvements. BrightWork's Zillow Showcase placement amplifies that story with premium positioning on the platform where most Alamo buyers begin their search, making sure the first impression matches what the home actually delivers.

Pillar II - Visual Depth That Does the Work Before the Showing

At $1,998,000, buyers at this price point expect to feel something before they get in the car. A Matterport 3D walkthrough lets busy professionals and out-of-area buyers walk through every room, including the primary suite and the updated kitchen, from anywhere, any time. Paired with Sky Tour aerial footage of the lot and backyard, the full picture of what makes this home worth the drive becomes clear before a showing is ever scheduled. Fewer wasted walkthroughs, more qualified buyers, stronger starting positions.

Pillar III - Reaching the Buyer Who Is Already Looking for This Home

The right buyer for 1489 Sunnybrook is out there. They may be a family comparing West Alamo against Danville or Orinda, or a professional relocating from San Francisco who wants single-story living with a pool and no compromises on schools. BrightWork's off-market buyer list and geo-targeted campaigns are built to find that person before they've settled on a different address. The goal isn't more showings from the casually curious. It's the right showing, from a buyer who already understands what this home is worth.

A DIFFERENT OPTION: THE QUIET LISTING

Sell Without the Disruption

A traditional listing puts a sign in your yard, opens your door to strangers every weekend, and puts your home's history on public record. For a home that already went through one listing cycle, there's a better starting point.

BrightWork maintains an active private buyer list through our off-market platform. These are Bay Area buyers who've opted in specifically to receive property alerts before anything hits Zillow. They're motivated, pre-qualified, and they believe an off-market home represents a real opportunity, which means they engage seriously.

- * No public days on market. The prior listing history stays private. A new buyer sees none of it.
- * No sign, no open houses, no disruption. The sale is a private conversation between a motivated buyer and a motivated seller.
- * Option to go public anytime. If the right off-market offer doesn't materialize in an agreed window, we transition directly into a full relaunch strategy with no time lost.

* HOW IT WORKS

We alert our private buyer list through offmarket.brightworkrealty.com - Bay Area buyers specifically seeking properties before they go public. If a serious match emerges within the agreed window, we negotiate and close privately. If not, we launch the full relaunch strategy immediately, with clean momentum and no days-on-market exposure.

TIMELINE: THE BRIGHTWORK SMART WAY

Phase 1 - Pre-Market Preparation (Weeks 1-2)

Staging, full media production, and a Coming Soon campaign - or a quiet listing launch to our private buyer network, depending on your preference.

Phase 2 - Strategic Launch (Week 3)

Thursday launch on Zillow Showcase with the full media package in premium placement. Targeted SF/Oakland digital ads go live the same day.

Phase 3 - Momentum Management (Weeks 4-5)

Active follow-up on every save, inquiry, and open house visitor. Final Offer gives serious buyers a transparent channel to submit competitive offers.

Phase 4 - The Close (Weeks 6-7)

We engineer competition, not just field offers. Our process keeps both sides of the transaction moving cleanly toward a close.

WHY BRIGHTWORK REALTY ADVOCATES

- * Deep local roots: 45+ years in Moraga, Lafayette, and Orinda. Ground-level knowledge of what buyers in each community are actually paying for.
- * Premium marketing as a baseline: Cinematic photography, floor plans, 3D tours, and Sky Tours on every listing. Not a luxury add-on.
- * Portal dominance: Zillow Showcase and homes.com premium placement. More views, enhanced listing pages, all leads to your team.
- * Modern offer tools: Final Offer gives buyers a transparent path to engage and gives you real-time demand data in one place.
- * True advocacy: We don't re-list homes. We forensically review what went wrong and rebuild the strategy from the ground up.

This home has real assets that the market never got to properly evaluate. That's a correctable problem. The window to correct it is still open.
